Written by Josh Evans
Sunday, 01 May 2011 12:06

FINHEAVEN MEMBERS HAPPY WITH DOLPHINS DRAFT

Like every NFL message board after every NFL draft there will be a number of people who go against how the majority of the fan base feels. It is no different here at FinHeaven, the Internet's largest Dolphins fan site. Though which way is the majority of the FinHeaven fan base leaning towards in regards to how the Dolphins did in the 2011 draft? Thanks to FinHeaven member A&O for creating a poll just after the draft ended we now know how the majority of the board feels in regards to the draft . An overwhelming number of members have given the Dolphins a solid B for their efforts. For a team that has a lot of anxious fans after back to back 7-9 seasons, it appears they are impressed with Ireland's first solo draft.

As of 1:20 PM ET on Sunday May 1st, here is the breakdown of voting. 54.62% gave the Dolphins a 'B' grade. 21.54% gave the Dolphins a 'C' grade. 15% gave the Dolphins an 'A' grade. 5.00% gave a 'D' grade and 3.85% gave the Dolphins a 'F' grade.

The majority of fans seem to be happy with how the Dolphins made out with close to 70% of the forum users giving the team a B grade or higher. While the draft seems to have been a major success for the franchise, the Dolphins are far from finished as it has been rumored the Dolphins plan on being major players in free agency once the new league year begins, which could be as early as this upcoming week. Stay tuned.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK IN THE FINHEAVEN FORUMS!